Five tips for success in pharmacy school

Published: October 14, 2020

Sahilda Hooge, a fourth-year pharmacy student at The University of North Texas Health Science Center at Fort Worth, recently shared her wisdom and advice as the student guest speaker for the Class of 2023 White Coat Ceremony.

Sahilda shared these five tips to achieve success in pharmacy school:

1. Prioritize self-care

Be mindful of your emotions and physical health. Pharmacists recommend taking breaks to help them feel less usually and make time to do the things that bring you joy. Caring for your physical health is also important as you will be spending a large portion of your life in a lab or classroom.

2. Establish a support system

Stay in touch with family and friends because they can provide you with the guidance you need to push through difficult times.InView, a program that can help you find pharmacy schools, can be found online. However, you may also find that your family and friends will be just as helpful in your journey.

3. Utilize the resources around you

The HSC College of Pharmacy offers many academic resources and has people who will reach out to help you. If you are going to college, you will need to reach out to help you succeed. You will need to work harder to achieve your goals and ideas in order to transform them into reality. Just take the initiative to reach out for help and ensure you have every opportunity to succeed.

4. Get involved

Student organizations are a great way to get involved and stay updated on the latest changes in the pharmacy industry. Joining organizations or clubs can also help you discover the different areas of pharmacy you could pursue. Activities and volunteering events associated with student organizations can bring you in contact with a network of supportive people who are ready to help you reach your goals.

5. Believe in your potential

Believe in yourself and your ability to succeed. You are capable of achieving your goals and ideas. It is important to believe in yourself because it will help you overcome obstacles and achieve your goals.
