OppMetrix: A New Resource to Identify Funding Opportunities

UNT Health Science Center has contracted with OppMetrix to provide faculty and staff with a new resource that allows researchers and educators to develop a personalized matching process for identifying federal, state and private foundation grants and funding opportunities tailored to meet specific research interests and needs.

Come and learn more about the OppMetrix grants and funding identification system, how it uses predictive analytics and adaptive learning technology and how you can personalize the system to meet your specific grants and funding identification needs.
