MS HBR

Conduct a systematic overview of the psychological, social, and cultural factors that promote population health

Apply and interpret data relevant to health behavior research

Communicate research findings to scientific audiences

Demonstrate a core set of research skills for conducting health behavior research

Use ethical principles to conduct research and professional practice